1. Introduction:

- 1.1. The use of social media platforms has become common for students and these communication tools have the potential to create a significant impact on institutions and professional reputations. Physicswallah Institute of Innovations (PWIOI) recognises that social media is a significant part of day-to-day life and numerous benefits and opportunities that social media presents. We actively use social media to disseminate information about academic activities and success stories of PWIOI and its Constituent units to the general public and enhance the public image of PWIOI and its Constituent units.
- 1.2. Despite the opportunities presented, there are risks. Social media allows individuals to communicate with a potentially huge audience, and sometimes its informality can encourage us to be less cautious than we would be when we use other more traditional methods of communication and interaction.
- 1.3. This policy is for students, provides information on the appropriate use of social media when connected, or linked in some way, to their status as a student of PWIOI and its Constituent units, or when directly or indirectly referencing PWIOI and all / or any of its Constituent Units in any way.
- 1.4. The policy also outlines the responsibilities of students who use social media allied with PWIOI or Students' Unions, Student Clubs, Societies, Groups etc.
- 1.5. Though the principles of freedom of expression / academic freedom apply to the use of social media; the students of PWIOI and its Constituent units require responsible and legal use, including registration in the interest of PWIOI and its Constituent units, within the ambit of the Govt. of India and other regulators' guidelines from time to time.

- 1.6. Social media channels covered by this policy include, but are not limited to, Facebook, Twitter, Snapchat, LinkedIn, YouTube, Instagram, Pinterest, blogging platforms, WhatsApp, Telegram, online forums, review sites etc.

2. Scope:

2.1. For the purpose of this policy, the term 'Social Media' is used to describe channels dedicated to community-based input, interactions, content sharing, and collaboration. Websites and applications dedicated to forums, microblogging, social networking, social bookmarking, social curation, and wikis are among the different types of social media.

2.2. This policy applies to social media communications made both on public and private forums. While posts added to public forums can be seen by any member of the public from the date of publication, students are asked to remember that posts added to private forums can also be shared publicly by others. There have been a number of high-profile cases where students across the country have been disciplined after offensive comments, made on private messaging services such as WhatsApp, were captured and subsequently shared. With this in mind, students should remember that appropriate action can be taken by PWIOI and its Constituent units if any stakeholder is identified to have failed in following these guidelines either publicly or privately.

2.3. This advisory does not cover social media usage by PWIOI staff, which is covered in a separate policy (already enrolled).

3. Students' responsibilities:

- 3.1. Students must read and act in accordance with the principles of these guidelines and regularly check PWIOI and its Constituent Units' Circulars and SLcM notifications for any minor/major updates to these guidelines.
- 3.2. Students are encouraged to be mindful of how their identity, statements, or views appear online and are reminded that future employers and industry contacts may view social media profiles when hiring to get an idea of a candidate's character, personality, or employability. Students should therefore be conscious of making posts today that may hinder them, for whatever reason, in the future.
- 3.3. Students should check the terms and conditions of a social media account and/or website regarding the ownership rights and control of the content that may be posted. For this reason, it is important to exercise caution in sharing all information, especially where the information, expressly or by implication or innuendo, identifies a third party.
- 3.4. Students must be aware of the potential impact and permanence of anything posted online. Therefore, students should avoid posting anything that:
- Is opposed to public domain / public policy in the public domain
  - Contravenes sections 4, 5, and 6 in the foregoing clauses.

3.5. Any digital material posted online could reach a wider audience than expected or intended. Once digital content has been created and shared, PWIOI and its Constituent units have every right for permanence and audience, within the social media policy of PWIOI and its Constituent units.

4. Behaviour and conduct on social media:

4.6. Publishing information, including imagery, relating to existing or potential complaints and/or legal proceedings. This may be done in the heat of the moment; however, students should be aware that by doing so they might bring PWIOI and its Constituent units into disrepute, or compromise the safety of PWIOI and its Constituent units by undermine proceedings or processes. As such, this conduct may be seen as of unacceptable nature, as per clause 4.4 above.

How to use social media — For Students

How to use social media Tips and Hints on staying safe and managing your reputation

We all recognise the enormous benefits and opportunities that social media presents and we actively encourage our students to use social media to communicate and keep in touch with the latest news and research in their area.

Despite the opportunities, there are risks. Social media allows individuals to communicate with a potentially large audience, and sometimes its informality can encourage us to be less cautious than we would ordinarily be.

These tips are to help you when you are considering posting on social media. They will help you manage your professional reputation and ensure you follow the guidelines of PWIOI and its Constituent units as well as the law.

- Remember, everything you post online is public. Once it's out there you lose control of how others might perceive it. Posting anything online (even on closed profiles or private messaging services, like WhatsApp, for example) has the potential to become public, even without your knowledge or consent.
- Think before you post. Would you be happy for your family, lecturer or future employer to see it? If not, then it's probably not a good idea to post it. There have been a number of high-profile cases where students across the country have been disciplined after offensive comments made on private messaging services, like WhatsApp, were captured and subsequently shared.
- Consider how the content of your messages may appear to others. Offensive materials, including text, images and video, have the potential to cause serious upset and severely damage your professional and personal reputation. > Consider how others may perceive your content. > How could a potential employer view the content? Employers are increasingly checking the digital footprint of potential staff.

This means looking at old tweets, posts and comments on forums. Will sharing the content result in you falling short of expected standards of PWIOI and its Constituent units and the law? If so, it could result in PWIOI and its Constituent units (Institution of Eminence Deemed to be University) disciplinary action. Don't forget, it can be hard to take something back once it has been shared, copied, or redistributed.

- Check your privacy settings. Protect your personal information and that of others that could be misused. Think about who can see your address, telephone number, date of birth and email address. Make sure you don't share your bank details online. Also remember that while you may be sharing the content privately (on your own private profile or in a private forum) others can share that content publicly if it is available.
- Make sure you familiarise yourself with expectations regarding professionalism and confidentiality about your course, especially if your course is accredited by a professional body. If you breach the code of conduct of a professional body, it may affect your ability to study and your future career.
- Be aware of sharing third-party materials. Do you need permission to share the materials or should you, as a matter of courtesy, contact the party? Make sure you check before posting, as infringement of rules could break copyright and/or intellectual property laws.
- Finally, question everything you read online. Not everything you read might be completely accurate.
  - ☐ Who wrote it?
  - ☐ Where did it come from?
  - ☐ Does the imagery appear to be of poor quality?

If you think it looks or sounds inaccurate, it's probably best avoided. Writing and distributing inaccurate statements about people and organisations can be unlawful and lead to legal actions
